Five Stories of Transformation, Function & Flair

Container gardens don't just spruce up a space. They completely change how we experience it. In today's five stories, the "before" wasn't just visual. It was about function, flow, and that bliss we feel when a space finally work.

Pick the story that felt most like your space, then flip this page for resources to help you create your own story at home.

Cindy Funes, Garden Revelry

I've been designing and planting containers in the Pacific Northwest since 2008 and still get excited about what a well-chosen pot can do for a space. I love helping people create outdoor living spaces that feel intentional, beautiful and manageable. I teach through speaking, online courses, and consultations for both homeowners and professionals.

If you'd like, start with one of the free resources on the back. They're a great next step (and easy way to keep learning together).
