BRIDGET LANCASTER & JULIA COLLIN DAVISON

PBS' America's Test Kitchen Comes to Salt Lake City:
Meet Bridget Lancaster and Julia Collin Davison

FOR FANS OF PBS' AMERICA'S TEST KITCHEN AND COOK'S COUNTRY, seeing Bridget Lancaster and Julia Collin Davison live is a rare treat. As Executive Editorial Directors and longtime co-hosts of two of television's most trusted cooking shows, the duo has built a reputation for taking the guesswork out of home cooking—one carefully tested recipe at a time.

This year, Bridget and Julia bring their expertise, humor, and kitchen-tested advice to the Salt Lake Home + Garden Show, where they'll take the Garden Stage to share insights every home cook can use.

See Bridget Lancaster and Julia Collin Davison live on the Garden Stage:

- Friday, March 6 at 6 p.m.
- Saturday, March 7 at 1 p.m.

A photo opportunity will follow each presentation.

Before they arrive, we asked both hosts the same set of questions—here's what they had to say.

What kitchen gadget or tool should every kitchen have?

Julia: A good, sharp, chef's knife that fits your hand and chopping style. There is no one knife that suits everyone, and there are lots to choose from.

Bridget: An electric knife sharpener. Keep it handy and you'll never have to use a dull knife again.

Catch Bridget Lancaster and Julia Collin Davison live at the Salt Lake Home+Garden Show—and bring your appetite for smart, no-nonsense cooking inspiration.

What's in your bag or purse?

Julia: I basically have a mini-CVS in my purse. Do you need pain meds, band aids, eye drops, tums, nail file, fashion tape, Lysol wipes, cuticle oil, or breath freshener? I've got you.

Bridget: Besides my wallet – Kiehl's hand cream, an Ohio State bottle opener, post-it notes, and about 30 pens that I've swiped from hotel rooms.

What's your favorite streaming series right now?

Julia: The Day of the Jackal on Peacock with Eddie Redmayne. I love how I find myself rooting for the bad guy.

Bridget: Hard to pick one favorite, but recent standouts are The Penguin, Hacks, and Landman. I will always stop what I'm doing and watch an old episode of Columbo when I come across it.

What's the most underrated kitchen appliance or gadget?

Julia: A large wooden cutting board. I love boards made from teak because they last forever without warping, are easy on the knife, and have natural antibacterial properties. And it has to be large, so you've got plenty of room to have separate piles of food that is prepped and not yet prepped.

Bridget: Get yourself a set of wireless thermometer probes that includes one for checking the grill temperature. It's the best invention since sliced brisket.

Tips for becoming a better cook at home?

Julia: Get a good instant read thermometer and learn the basic temperatures of cooked foods (chicken breast = 160, medium-rare steak is 120° -125°, salmon is around 130°). Guessing when your food is done is for amateurs.

Bridget: Practice, practice, practice. Make a weekly plan of what you're going to cook and prep as many ingredients as you can ahead of time.

What are you loving to cook right now?

Julia: I'm really into smash burgers at the moment, using a cast iron griddle. They are so fast and easy to make, and everyone in the family loves them (even the dog).

Bridget: Was recently gifted a discada. So all summer long it's been tacos, tacos, tacos.

What is one food you will never cook at home?

Julia: Sushi. Just, no.

Bridget: Beets. Nor will I eat them.

What's your favorite type of music to listen to when you're working?

Julia: Reggae. Hands down. It's nearly impossible to get wound up if there's old school reggae in the background.

Bridget: I tend to match my music to the meal. So, Sunday gravy means a little Sinatra or Louie Prima, Sunday lunch might mean a little Ella. For mad-dash meals I might break out Metallica, Nine Inch Nails, or Rammstein—turned up to number 11, of course.

What's your next home project?

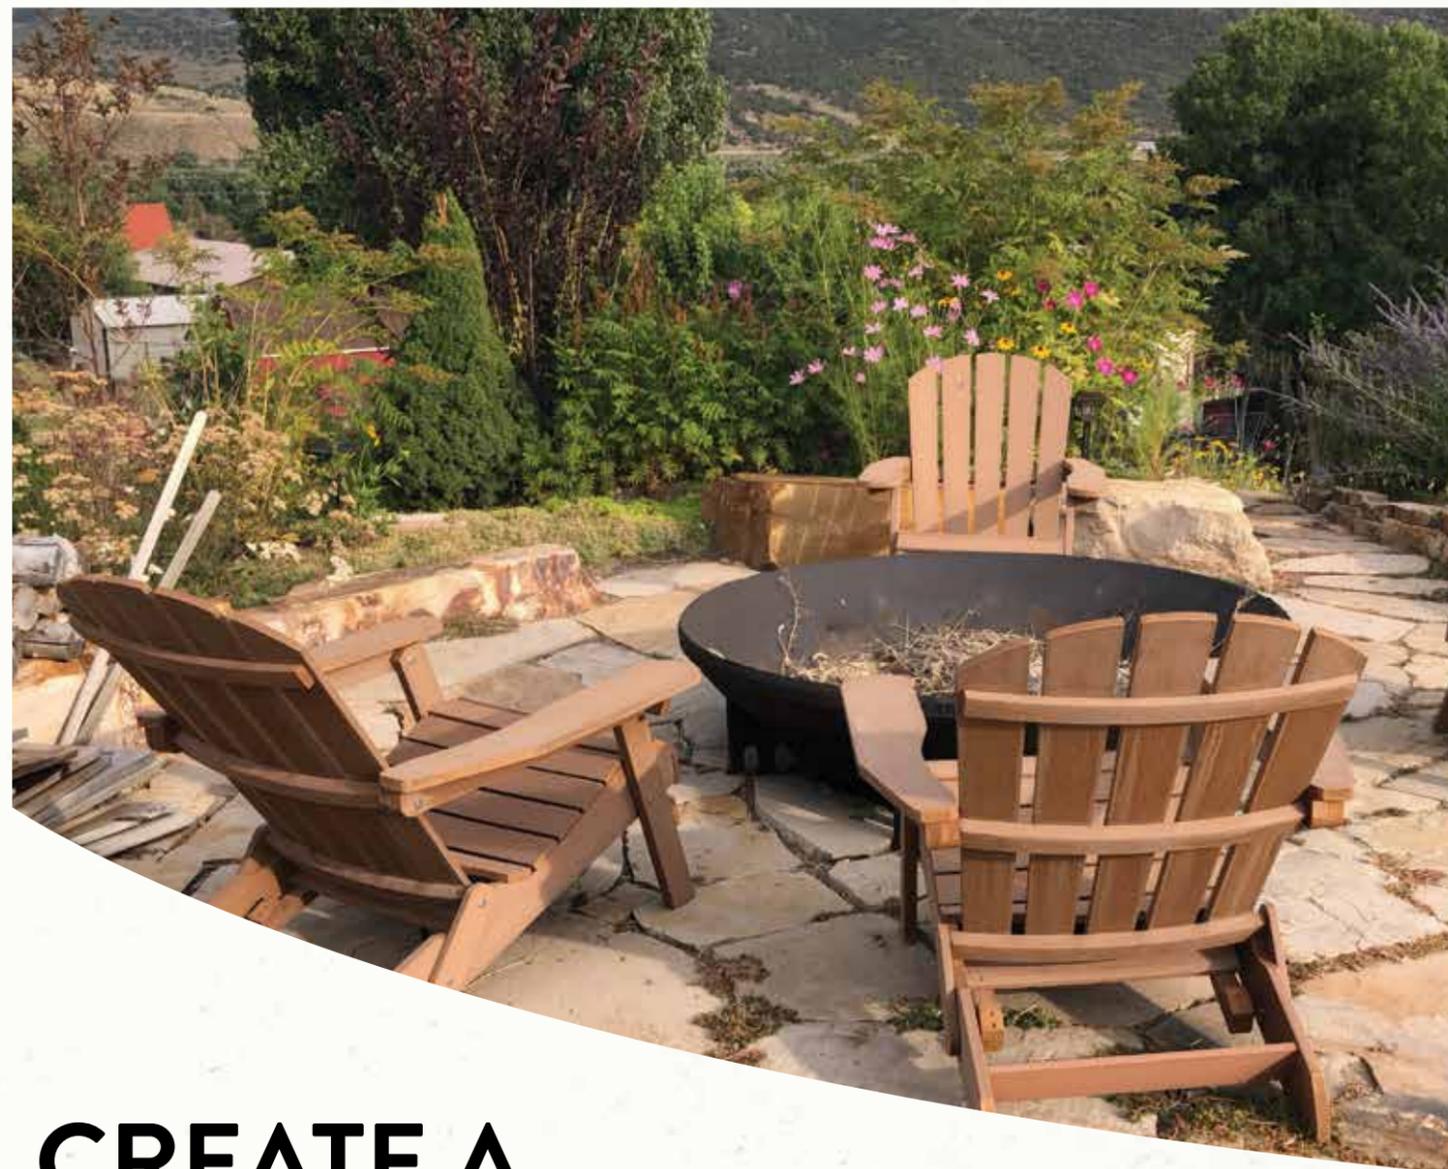

Julia: HA! What isn't on the list:) We need a new roof and our bathroom needs to be completely redone. We also need new windows upstairs and the floors need refinishing. Plus, we need to make our driveway larger. And don't get me started on the lawn and plantings...

Bridget: New wood floors is the likely next project, although I would love to add a full, second-story addition to my tiny home.

Do you have any kitchen design advice?

Julia: Incorporate some counter space without overhanging cabinets (or lots of clutter) so that you have a nice workspace for prepping.

Bridget: The best thing that my husband and I did when designing our kitchen more than 20 years ago was to create a sizable (could be bigger) pantry and no upper cabinets. Our base cabinets are extra-deep, so even when there are appliances or utensil crocks on the counter, there's still plenty of room to work.

CREATE A DROUGHT-RESISTANT YARD UTAH

Some plants were made for Utah. Others weren't. Go to SlowtheFlow.org to learn which plants will make your yard and Utah's great outdoors thrive.

HOW TO CREATE THE ULTIMATE OUTDOOR SPACE NO MATTER YOUR BUDGET

Design-Smart Tips For Utah Living, Season By Season

IN UTAH, OUTDOOR LIVING ISN'T A LUXURY—IT'S A LIFESTYLE. With four distinct seasons, dramatic mountain views, and wide-open skies, the right outdoor setup can extend your living space for months at a time. Whether you're working with a modest patio or a sprawling backyard, creating the ultimate outdoor space comes down to smart planning, climate-savvy choices, and a little creativity.

Start with how you'll actually use the space

Before buying furniture or planting anything, think about function. Do you want a quiet retreat, a place to entertain, or a family-friendly hangout? In Utah, versatility is key. Opt for layouts that can adapt from sunny afternoons to cool desert evenings—think movable seating, multi-use tables, and zones that can evolve as the seasons change.

Design for Utah's weather swings

From intense summer sun to chilly fall nights, weather protection is essential. Shade structures like pergolas, retractable awnings, or even well-placed umbrellas can dramatically improve comfort. On a budget? Outdoor curtains, shade sails, or strategically planted trees offer affordable relief from the heat. For cooler months, portable fire pits, patio heaters, or built-in fireplaces add warmth and extend usability well into fall.

Choose materials that can handle the elements

Utah's climate demands durability. Look for outdoor furniture made from powder-coated metal, teak, or high-quality resin that can handle temperature fluctuations. When it comes to surfaces, sealed concrete, natural stone, and composite decking hold up well against sun exposure and freeze-thaw cycles.

Layer in lighting for ambiance and safety

Good lighting transforms an outdoor space after dark. Solar path lights, string lights, and LED uplighting are budget-friendly ways to add warmth and visibility. Focus on layering—task lighting for cooking areas, soft ambient lighting for seating zones, and accent lighting to highlight landscaping or architectural features.

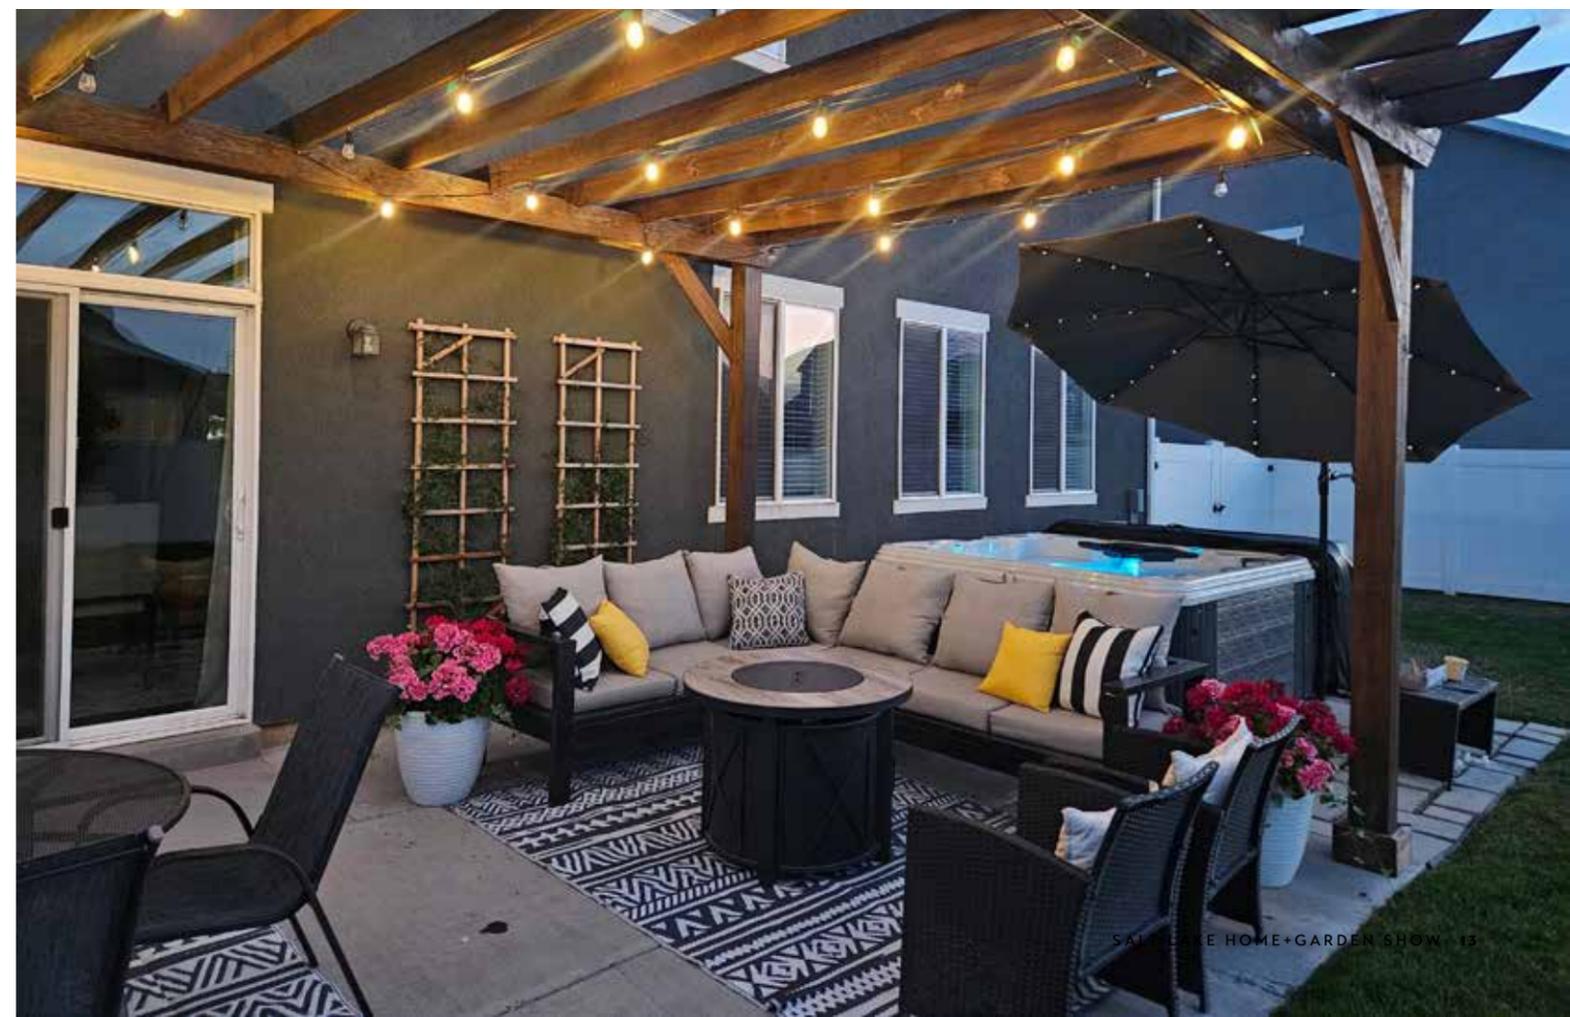

Bring the indoors out—with plants

Native and drought-tolerant plants thrive in Utah landscapes and require less maintenance. Potted herbs, ornamental grasses, and hardy perennials add texture and color without overwhelming your budget. Bonus: plants also provide natural cooling and privacy.

Finish with personality

Outdoor rugs, throw pillows, and weather-resistant art are easy ways to personalize your space. These finishing touches can be swapped seasonally, giving your outdoor area a fresh look without a full redesign.

Ready to take your outdoor space to the next level? Visit the Salt Lake Home + Garden Show, where you'll find hundreds of vendors, designers, landscapers, and home improvement experts ready to help you turn ideas into reality—no matter your budget. It's the perfect place to get inspired, ask questions, and connect with the pros who know Utah living best.
